Petrarca y el petrarquismo. En sentimiento

Dr. N. Wolf, head of the M.D.A. Central Blood Bank, said it was impractical to have to rely on the import of blood plasma, as had been necessary during the War of Independence.

The institute, headed by Dr. Y. Dressler, will handle blood fractionation -- breaking down of the plasma to various components -- and the distribution of blood by-products. It will also conduct research, and the building will house the Central Blood Bank. An Advisory Council attached to the Institute will include representatives of the M.D.A., the Ministry of Health, the Army Medical Corps, the Hebrew University, the Weizmann Institute of Science, the Biological Institution in Ness Ziona and various hospitals.

The U.S. and British Ambassadors spoke at the ceremony as did representatives of the Ministries of Health and Foreign Affairs, the Defence Forces and Mayor Haim Levanon.

New Jerusalem Corridor First Aid Station Bears Name of International Red Cross Chief

A new "First Aid Station" at Moshav Shores settlement in the Jerusalem Corridor was officially opened on August 7 and named the Emil Sandstrom Station in honour of Justice Emil Sandstrom of Sweden, President of the International Red Cross and a member of the International Court of Justice at the Hague. Justice Sandstrom headed the United Nations' Special Commission on Palestine in 1947.

Speaking at the inauguration ceremony Justice Sandstrom said that he was honoured to have his name associated with the pioneering spirit which characterises the life of settlers living in border areas, and he praised the initiative and courage which went into the building of the State of Israel. He expressed the hope that the ambulance presented to the Sandstrom Station by the Friends of the Magen David Adom in Britain would only have to be summoned for natural and peaceful calls.

The ceremony was attended by the Swedish Chargé d'Affaires in Israel, Mr. Ingvar Grauers, the Jerusalem District Commissioner, Mr. S. B. Meshayahu, and Dr. Joseph Kott, Director of the Magen David Adom Society.

The Sandstrom M.D.A. station, which is the second to be established in the Jerusalem Corridor will serve 23 settlements in the area.
